"THE GENRES OF THE NEW YORK HERALD."-Our metropolitan journals generally, and the New York Herald in particular, are great puzzles, unriddled Sphynxes, to the English press and the English people. The HERALD, especially, is the object of mingled wonderment and admiration with the people of the mother iand. Its enterprise seems to startle, and its boldness in dealing with all kinds of subjects appears to bewilder them. They forget that we have no red tape system here, and that routine is absolutely unknown. There is no humdrum about the HERALD, and above all things it never goes to sleep, like many other journals at home and abroad. These are facts which the English press is beginning to discover, although it is evident that it does no clearly understand them. We have published sketches of the homes and habits of the different candidates for the Presidency now before the country, and they have been very popular here, have given great pleaeure to our people, and have been invariably copied all through the country. The candidates themselves have no objection to them but, on the contrary, consider them fair, candid and truthful descriptions. But the London Globe, in an article which we give in another column, is evidently taken all aback at the peculiarity of this kind of journalism. It gives most piquant extracts from our sketches with free and easy comments of its own. It admits that English journals sometimes enliver their columns with dull anecdotes of Lord Palmerston and Lord John Russell, but the idea of giving detailed descriptions of the homes, families and private lives of public men seeking the highest office in the gift of the people, in whom the whole nation is naturally interested, is one that baffles the comprehension of our London cotemporary, and it cancidly acknowledges that "our newspapers sadly want the genius of the New York HERALD."

That is just what Mr. Cobden said; just what every one says who reads American and English newspapers; and it is precisely what we say. The Canadian papers, too, have just discovered the same thing by the manner in which we described the tour of the Prince of Wales in advance of themselves and of the English newspaper correspondents specially detailed for the purpose. The Canadian papers were at first quite sleepy over the Prince's sayings and doings; then, when they found that the HERALD was eclipsing them in speed and accuracy, they commenced to abuse us, and villify our reporters: Now they are running into the other extreme, by out-Jenkinsing Jenkins, and making themselves ridiculous by over doing everything. Like badly taught parrots, they are always saying the wrong things in the wrong places; or, like the frog in the fable, they are raining themselves to arrive at the dimensions of the HERALD's reports until they fairly burst, to the infinite amusement of all intelligent people. The English press, heavy and behind Into this ridiculous error; but we entirely agree sadly want the genius of the New York

THE ABBE MCMASTER ON FUSION.—The Abbe McMaster, of the Freeman's Journal, scouts the idea of a fusion with the Breckinridge democracy as "fusion nonsense." A fusion, he tells us, has been made with the Bell-Everett party, because that movement is "merely a negotia-tion," and has nothing in it inconsistent with the principles of the national democracy; but the Breckinridge faction is a horse of another color. All this may be very well for the philosopher of the Freeman's Journal: but our on is that voters as well as principles are worth looking after, and that it is not abstractions, but votes, that carry our elections. Will the Abbe be good enough to tell us how demoples without votes are to defeat

MESSRS. WOOD AND LAFLIN'S REPORT

Rejection of the Proposition of the Breckinridge State Committee.

The National Democratic Volunteers Ask for a Hearing.

THE APPOINTMENT OF A SUB-COMMITTEE.

Richmond, Cagger and Company Receive Full Power to Ruin the Democratic Party, Be.,

The Douglas State Central Committee assembled at th las Hotel yesterday, for the purpose of consider St. Nicholas motel yesterday, for the purpose of considering the all-important question of fusion. A large number of politicians of all shades, grades and importance were in attendance, watching the movements of the power arsembled. Breckinridge, Bell and Douglas men were see moving about in the crowd, eyeing every one support to have any power with the committee—some countries. ers talking anti-fusion and denouncing ing fusion, others taking any of the electoral ticket. Amongst the outsiders we noticed William Kelly, the Douglas nominee for Governor; James Brooks, of the Express: George Sanders, Senator Lawrence, and several others from all parts thing but union of feeling amongst the floating fragments about the hotel, and the feeling for fusion in the minds of those managing the machine was exingly doubtful. They assembled in the room 389, a twenty minutes before one o'clock, but did not organize antil near two P. M., there being but twelve men pro

pent, as follows:—
Pean Richmond,
Peter Cagger,
F. L. Lavin,
R. H. Cesbing,
R. G. Stone,
Wm. D. Kennedy,

Calon Frost, Ban). Wood, John A. Dayton, Willard Johnson, Chas C B. Walker, Elmore S. Ross.

The time prior to calling the commistee to order wa ccopied in canvassing the field and endeavoring to ascertain where they stood. Cagger was especially officious and labored his best to prevent any union with the present Breckinridge organization. As soon as the committee was called to order, Mr. Benj. At this interview a long conference was held, but no deficite conclusion reached, the special committee on the other side being evidently indisposed to arrive at an amicable conclusion of the negotiations.

The undersigned, earnessly desirous that the union of the entire democratic party should be effected, and being unwilling that anything abort of a sacrifice of principle should prevent such a result, again invoked consultation with the committee, and subsequent interviews were held for that purpose.

Finding, however, that the representatives of the Brecking loge Committee were determined not to yield their original procedition, as a dernier resort we felt justified, unser the circumstances, of according, and addressed Mr. Green the following communication, having previously verbally notified Mr. Green that we should accept his proposition:

Naw Youx, Sept. 8, 1880.

To Joss A. Garra, Jr., Chairman, &c.:

Sun—The Democratic State Central Committee having appointed a sub-committee, of which I am chairman, have corcluded to accede to your proposition, and will report favorably on the same to it a state Gentral Committee. That proposition was that the friends of Breckninige and Lane about a same ten electors and two candidates on the State thetet, namely, the Lieutenant Governor and Ganal Commissioner.

F. L. Lather, Secretary.

This was handed to a mamber of the Breckinnings State Committee, at the Astor House, on the day of the cate, within presence of a majority of that committee had adjourned, and it could not now be considered. The communication was left with a member of the committee had adopted the state of the committee and sobsequently returned to us.

We have thus catalied a history of our state of the committee and when the controlled a history of our state.

munication was left with a member of the committee and sobsequently returned to us.

We have thus detailed a history of our proceedings, in pursuance of the resolution of the State Committee, and deeply regret that we are not enabled to report a more national or the undersigned have exhausted every power at their command to produce harmonious action. We feel deeply the necessity of union. We now refer the subject back to the committee which appointed us, and begieave to be discharged from any further duty in the matter.

F. L. LAPLEN, Secretary.

B. WOOD, Chairman. Mr. Wood supported his report by a few remarks in fa vor of union, stating that it seemed to be universally de manded in this city by the real anti Lincoln forces, and he thought it too great a responsibility for them to assume to prevent this desired union.

Mr. Cagger moved the adoption of the report, and said that he did so for the purpose of getting the question before the committee so that they could vote upon it.

One gentleman remarked that the committee did not re-ommend anything.

Mr. Wood then offered a resolution, that the report of Green's committee be accepted.

This resolution was supported by Mr. Dayton, of Brooklyn, Mr. Wood and Mr. Kennedy of New York, and Mr. Frost, of Westohester, at some length, and opposed by a number of the committee from the interior and western part of the State, the latter asserting that a union would is jure them more in their locality than they would gain in

A vote was finally taken, with the following result:-Tras Mesers, Payton, Frost, Reunedy, Wood and infilm—6.

NATS—Mesers, Cagger, Cushing, Ross, Richmond, Walker, Stone and Johnson—I.

Thus rejecting the proposition of the Breckinridge organization.

policy of giving them a hearing, they finally decided to bear what they had to say. Accordingly the Volunteers made their appearance. Mr. John T. Henry, their spokes-man, stated that they had come there as a committee from the National Democratic Volunteers, an organiza-tion composed of merchants and business men of a concession to favor of the Breckinridge party, that the State may be kept out of the hands of the republicans and the defeat of Lincoln made sure. Several other members of the delegation spoke in about the same strain, advocating a union of all the anti-Lin-coin forces in the State.

The commistee heard their statement, and then asked them what concession was necessary to existly them, to which the Volunteers replied that they asked ten electors, and one half of the State ticket. After some further consuitation they were asked to furnish the names that they desired to have placed on the electoral ticket, whereupon the Volunteers retired to prepare a list.

They subsequently appeared with a complete list, re-commending that one of the Douglas electors from the State at large resign, and his place be filled with the name of James T. Brady, and that nine of the district elecname of James T. Brady, and that nine of the district electors also resign, and that that number of the electors at present upon the Breckinridge electoral ticket be substituted in their place. Also, that the candidates for Licutenant Governor and Canal Commissioner, at present on the Breckinridge State ticket, be put on the Douglas State ticket, in lieu of those already nominated for those offices.
Some little time was spent in the interchange of ideas, when the Douglas committee informed them that they would consider their proposition at the evening's session, and would then give them their reply. The delegation from the Volunteers then withdrew, and the Richmond Committee laid their communication upon the table and took a recess until seven o'clock P. M.
In yesterday's report of the fusion men, the name

In yesterday's report of the fusion men, the nam of Mott was made to read Worth. We also omitted to state that nothing was said in the conferences be tween the two sub-committees about the Breckinridge party considering the proposition of Mr. Wood—a virt endorsement of the equatter sovereignty of Douglas, and the abandonment of their platform adopted at Baltimore. Mr. Laffin assures us that no such conversation took

Most of the evening was spent in general conversation and consultation by the managers of the longias organization. St. Nicholas Hetel was filled with politicians, who were flying about with all manner of rumors as to what would be done by the committee, no two holding the same view as to what would be accomplished. The committee were dodging about, consulting with this and that person, and receiving the opinion of every one upon this import ant subject, just as though they cared anything about the views of other persons. There was a strong outside pressure upon a portion of the committee from merchanis and others in this city, who declared that there should be no campaign funds unless a fusion was perfected. This campaign funds unless a fusion was perfected. This seemed to be the strongest argument in the minds of the no-fusion members of the committee that was raised, and about the only thing that induced a portion of the committee to consider any proposition, as the men that have heretofore subscribed the funds for the democracy are now enrolled in the ranks of the Breckinridge party Fuse or no bread, was the philosopher's stone that seemed for the time being to bring the Regency to its

The universal rumor amongst the outside politician throughout the evening was that there would be a union in some form: It was said that even Cagger declared tha a satisfactory ticket would be arranged—not by taking the ultimatum of the Green Committee, nor the proposi then of the Volunteers, but by the selection of a ticket to suft themselvee, by putting upon it from six to ten assume such as might suit Richmond and Cagger, and that ticket launched forth as a Union electoral ticket, representing that Richmond and Cagger positively decline taking the names of any persons offered by the other parties. This is not said publicly, but only to friends, those of their own mode of thinking. The names that were doating about as probable to be selected by them are James T. Brady Joshua J. Henry, Wm 8. Duncan, Wilson G. Hunt, Moses Taylor and Gouverneur Kemble—only one of the name suggested by the Democratic Volunteers These gentle men may find their way open the ticket, and they may not. Nine-tenths of the Douglas politicisms around the perhaps enough more to make the number up to ten; and, what was more, each person pretended that they spoke knowing the views of Richmond, Cagger & Co.

knowing the views of Richmond, Cagger & Co.

The Committee was not called to order until after nine o'clock, and immediately after order was restored a gentleman from the worsh districts offered a resolution appointing a sub-committee of three, sensiting of Richmond, Cagger and Hubbard, with full power to fill any vacancies that may occur on the electoral ticket. This resolution was adopted without calling the yess and nays, whereupon Mr. Dayton said, is it now understood that this sub-committee have power to do snything and just what they please. Receiving an affirmative reply, he then said that there seems to be no further work for the Central Committee, they are now simply an appendage Central Committee, they are now simply an appendag to the sub-committee, to be used if convenient; he moved therefore, that the committee do now adjourn size die.

The motion was put and carried, the Committee of The motion was put and carried, the Committee sur rendering everything into the bands of Richmond and Cagger, who are now to run the democratic machine by the table during the evening session, the Committee adjourning without considering it. Subsequently to adjournment the sub-committee fixed a meet for to day, at twelve o'clock, to consult with the Volunte in regard to their ticket, promising to have all done that they intend to do before four o'clock this afternoon. With this general understanding the Committee sepa-rated, and the numerous politicians left the hotel. There is a movement on foot to bring out a Calon Coket at the Union ratification meeting on Monday pigh The merchants declare that they will not wait the slow motion of the Regency any longer, and if there is no fusion ticket formed before, they will make one out of the three electoral tickets in the field, and announce it at the ratification meeting. So stands the fusion programm at the last hour of the 14th day of September.

Naw Januar.-The regular State Committee called Convention at Treason, according to form, to nominate an ejectoral ticket. Some of the Douglas men, discover-ing that there was a large majority to favor of nominating a ticket from the three sections opposed to Lin coin, would not meet with the Convantion, though elected as driegates. The member of the Douglas Na-tional Executive Committee, Jacob Vznatta, issued a call the day before for the friends of Douglas and Johnson to assemble is Convention and nominate an electoral ticket.
About one-third of the Convention so met gathered in volunteer delegates from Treaton, and nominated a volunteer delegates from Treaton, and communes a straight out Douglas ticket, and at once adjourned. The regular Convention nominates the ticket neated by ex-diovertor Vreom and 8. A Stevens, commissing of two Douglas, two Breckings and three Bell mee. Dr. Mc-threnoy (Bell) has decitored on the pies of sickness in his family, and the place is not filled. The others have scoreted, except williamnee (Douglas) and McDonald (Bell), from whom no answer is yet had. It is under-stood they walt to give place to men on the straight out ticket.
